Re: Reverse cuts to Legal Aid Ontario to safeguard health

Dear Premier Ford and Attorney General Mulroney,

The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario (RNAO) urges you to reverse the cuts to Legal Aid Ontario (LAO) announced in the 2019 Ontario Budget. The 36 per cent reduction in provincial funding this year ($133 million) will deepen to a 44 per cent reduction ($164 million) by 2021-2022.<sup>1</sup> In addition, the provincial government has instructed them to use only federal funding for refugee and immigration services.<sup>2</sup> This has caused refugee law offices to "have limited capacity and as a result, not all clients will be able to receive assistance."<sup>3 4</sup>

Ontarians who are using LAO legal services are living with low income and are among the most vulnerable people in our society. Community legal clinic clients are disproportionately people living with physical and mental disabilities, single mothers, newcomers, racialized people, seniors, survivors of abuse and torture, and other historically disadvantaged groups.<sup>5</sup> They depend on these critical services for help accessing the necessities of life such as income support, housing, and safety when escaping dangerous situations as victims of domestic violence or as refugees. The Canadian Association of Refugee Lawyers and the Ontario Refugee Lawyers Association have jointly stated that these cuts have "life-threatening consequences, including detention, torture and possibly even death after deportation to the places from which they fled."<sup>6</sup>

Community legal clinics are particularly skilled and experienced in working with people trying to survive on low income and facing complex challenges that are often interrelated. Bureaucracies, complex laws, and cascading consequences (such as a family facing eviction when an employer does not pay wages or the social assistance payment does not arrive) are inherent characteristics of poverty law.<sup>7 8</sup> Whether helping individuals and families on a case-by-case basis or addressing systemic issues through test cases and policy analysis, the work of this agency is invaluable to the health and safety of people and of our communities.

Cutting funding to critical legal services for people already struggling threatens lives, erodes health, and affects human dignity. A government concerned about prudent spending should consider that for every $1 spent on legal aid, about $6 of public funds are saved elsewhere.<sup>9</sup>

Premier Ford and AG Mulroney, RNAO and our over 42,000 members call on you to reverse proposed cuts to LAO.

With warmest regards and respect,

Doris Grinspun, RN, MSN, PhD, LLD(hon), Dr(hc), FAAN, O.ONT
