

cannabis legalization
what nurses need to know

Recreational cannabis will become legal in Canada this summer. Yet many questions remain about what a future with legalized cannabis looks like.

At this year's AGM closing keynote presentation, a panel of nurses and other experts in public health will explore the social, legal and health implications of legalizing cannabis.

They will share their expertise and experiences, and discuss nurses' unique role in educating Canadians about cannabis and pushing for a public health approach to legalization.
