

We can't put patients first without

more RNs

Ontario's health minister says he wants to put patients first. But the reality is that the share of registered nurses (RN) has been dropping.

THE CHANGING SHARE OF RN EMPLOYMENT in Ontario

MIND the SAFETY

g

a p

in health system transformation:
RECLAIMING
THE ROLE OF THE RN

RNs are trained to provide person-centred care for patients with the most complex needs.

The evidence shows that a higher proportion of RNs provides safer, more effective care.

More RNs means patients experience fewer complications and deaths.

Having fewer RNs means your safety is at risk.

